UNC Kenan-Flagler Business School is committed to developing transformative entrepreneurial leaders as founders, funders and growth executives. The Center for Entrepreneurial Studies (CES), founded in 1997 through the generosity of Frank Hawkins Kenan, offers a comprehensive array of curricular and co-curricular programs under the rubric Learn-Launch-Lead (L3)™ to develop skills and direct experience not found at other business schools. Our broad-spectrum entrepreneurship curriculum fosters our collaborative, hands-on and results-driven learning environment to build an entrepreneurial mindset. And, our commitment extends beyond graduation to support career transitions through our global network of alumni mentors and coaches.

KEY RESOURCES

ADAMS APPRENTICESHIP
This game-changing program is designed for entrepreneurs with a passion for innovation, creating opportunities and demonstrating results. Adams Apprentices are offered exclusive access to Adams Advisors—a select group of Carolina alumni and friends uniquely positioned to open doors and facilitate entrepreneurial success in multiple career pathways.

ENTREPRENEURS LAB (ELab)
ELab offers a select number of UNC Kenan-Flagler MBA business students a rare opportunity to meet one-on-one with local entrepreneurs at their locations to see innovation firsthand. The class also invites best-in-class thought leaders to offer their insights and connections to accelerate the student experience.

LAUNCH CHAPEL HILL
This startup accelerator is designed to increase the growth potential of high-impact startup and early stage ventures. Launch Chapel Hill provides the support, tools and knowledge needed to decrease risks, reduce go-to-market time and accelerate the growth of a startup. (www.launchchapelhill.com)

1789 VENTURE LAB
The 1789 Venture Lab provides support for fledgling innovators with ideas for nonprofit, for-profit or social entrepreneurial ventures. Access to relevant mentors and business coaches and essential services are provided for students and alumni starting their ventures. (www.1789venturelab.com)
At UNC Kenan-Flagler, an entrepreneurial spirit is ingrained into our culture. Since 1997, CES has offered students, staff and faculty the resources to identify and evaluate valuable entrepreneurial opportunities and get connected to mentors and coaches in Research Triangle Park (RTP) — one of the nation’s most vibrant entrepreneurial hotspots.

Founded at UNC Kenan-Flagler in 1998, VCIC attracts 1,200 MBA students from 60 different business schools around the world. VCIC provides MBA students with a unique opportunity to learn about venture capital funding by acting as VCs and evaluating real startup ventures. VCIC simulates the entire VC investment process in an extremely condensed time period, providing MBA students with a first-hand glimpse of venture capital. (www.vcic.org)

The challenge is one of the nation’s premier university-sponsored entrepreneurship competitions. Since 2005, dozens of new ventures created by students, recent graduates and faculty have competed for up to $50,000 of seed funding. Participants are also given the opportunity to network with experienced business experts and receive valuable feedback.

This program provides MBAs an experiential learning opportunity serving as consultants to early stage, UNC-affiliated startup companies. These consulting projects offer students the chance to develop and hone entrepreneurial and startup skills through hands-on work and the opportunity to expand their network of founders, advisors and management teams. Projects often include market research, competitive analysis, business model development, pitch presentation refinement and validation of financing strategies.

UNC Kenan-Flagler is positioned to be the training ground for the next generation of transformative entrepreneurial leaders.

For business leaders to be relevant in the future, they will need to acquire the skills of the entrepreneur. UNC Kenan-Flagler is best positioned among peer business schools to shape entrepreneurial leaders through our Learn-Launch-Lead. This model delivers depth and breadth to prepare graduates to transition to entrepreneurship over the course of their career — as founders of new enterprises, funders in venture capital and private equity investing as well as corporate intrapreneurs or senior leaders in high-growth ventures.

MBA Career Management Center
UNC Kenan-Flagler offers a broad range of career development resources including preparatory courses, elevator pitch practice and startup-focused career treks to the Bay area, RTP, New York and Boston. A dedicated associate director is focused on entrepreneurial and startup career outcomes and is actively supported by the Center for Entrepreneurial Studies.

The only student-run fund associated with a top-tier business school that seeks to provide real returns to its limited partners. Currently, the Kenan-Flagler PE Fund has more than $4.4 million of committed capital under management across two funds. (www.kfpefund.com)

UNC Kenan-Flagler faculty are dedicated to making the complex world of entrepreneurship accessible and tangible. The UNC Kenan-Flagler EIRs leverage a deep industry expertise and network, and they mentor and coach students through a myriad of innovative topics. Successful practicing entrepreneurs enhance the classroom experience by guiding students’ entrepreneurial ideas and models based on their startup experiences.

This is a series of courses in feasibility, business planning and financing designed to teach, empower and inspire entrepreneurial teams at UNC to launch commercial businesses and social ventures. These courses also provide hands-on coaching and mentoring. (www.launch.unc.edu)

UNC Kenan-Flagler has a broad and globally active network of over 1,150 alumni, currently working as serial entrepreneurs, venture capitalist/private equity investors and growth executives.
