

Real Estate Diversity Internship Program

Are you interested in making an impact on the future of the commercial real estate industry?

Employers

- Provide a meaningful, paid internship experience for the student
- Provide housing or stipend, if needed
- Collaborate actively with the Wood Center on student selection and skills training

Students

- Participate in pre-internship training for interviews, industry knowledge, and skills preparation
- Work full-time for 8-10 weeks minimum and gain valuable work experience
- Participate in program feedback and share experiences with other students across UNC's campus

KENAN-FLAGLER BUSINESS SCHOOL

Leonard W. Wood Center for Real Estate Studies

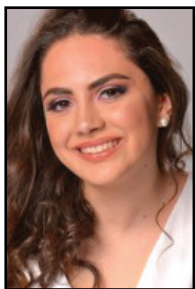

Dates to Remember

"Prior to REDI, my knowledge of CRE was limited, but I left feeling much more competent and like I could have a conversation about any sector of the industry with anyone."

Donovan Herndon

Patty Castillo

"The REDI program has been one of the most memorable highlights of my UNC experience. After learning about [it] in my First Year, I sought out resources and participated in activities that would strengthen my application."

Benefits for Employees

- Pre-selected applicant pool of qualified students
- Create pipeline of diverse candidates for future internship and full-time positions
- Foster a collaborative and welcoming environment within the CRE industry
- Participate in an industry-altering program to increase the overall diverse applicant pool within CRE on the university level

For more information about the REDI program, contact Lynn Tocci at lynn_tocci@kenan-flagler.unc.edu