KEY RESOURCES

UNC REAL ESTATE CONFERENCE

This annual conference is organized by the Wood Center for Real Estate Studies and brings industry leaders to Chapel Hill for a lively discussion of current real estate trends.

REAL ESTATE CAREER DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

A progressive series developed by the MBA Career & Leadership and MBA Real Estate Club to enhance our student job search outcomes. Covering both technical industry training as well as job search strategies, the series is delivered by a mix of faculty, staff, alumni and fellow students.

UNC REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENT CASE CHALLENGE

UNC Kenan-Flagler Business School hosts a spring Case Challenge for 16 of the top MBA programs from around the world. Our students also participate in case competitions around the nation.

REAL ESTATE STUDENT INVESTMENT FUNDS

Tenure as a manager on the Funds provides select students with hands-on experience in the operation of a private investment fund with the opportunity to establish personal and professional relationships with national real estate developers and investors.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

CAREER TREKS - Coordinating with academic coursework, career treks offered throughout the year to multiple cities give access to top real estate employers and projects. Recent cities include Atlanta, Charlotte, Dallas, Houston, Miami, Nashville, New York City, Philadelphia, Raleigh-Durham, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

REAL ESTATE GLOBAL IMMERSION ELECTIVE - Offered most years, this for-credit elective provides our real estate students with a global perspective of real estate markets beyond our borders. Recent visits include Brazil, Cuba, Chile, Colombia, Panama, Russia and the UK.

MENTORING - From peer to peer counseling to UNC Real Estate alumni, our students have extraordinary access to mentors. Each incoming real estate student will be matched with both a senior real estate alum as well as a second-year real estate student, providing plenty of opportunity for mentoring and growth.

FINANCIAL MODELING - To kick-start our students' real estate acuity in Excel modeling, a two-day real estate modeling workshop is organized by the Wood Center for first-year students.

ARGUS CERTIFICATION - Each year this real estate software company is brought to campus to provide a rigorous multiday class leading to certification.

INDUSTRY ASSOCIATION INVOLVEMENT - The Wood Center provides funding for each real estate student to join those real estate associations the student feels will provide him/her the most access to industry professionals.

FUNDING FOR STUDENT DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS - The Wood Center provides funding for project expenses in the program's capstone development class, making for a real-world learning experience.

SPEAKER SERIES - With access to a large and high-level real estate alumni group and industry leaders, a speakers series is developed each year to showcase speakers who can provide an informative viewpoint on current real estate topics.

BROWN BAG LUNCHES - Organized by the MBA Real Estate Club and the real estate faculty and staff, time between classes is used to present real estate topics in a speaker or open discussion format.

SPEED NETWORKING - The MBA Real Estate Club organizes an annual event to further develop and refine quintessential networking skills.

UNC REAL ESTATE ALUMNI NETWORK - As one of the School's most engaged alumni networks, the community actively organizes multiple events across major geographies. In addition, members share job openings, news and relevant information through various social media platforms.

The Leonard W. Wood Center for Real Estate Studies exists to enrich the real estate experience at UNC Kenan-Flagler for our students, faculty, alumni and employers.

The Wood Center and its advisory board focus on the overall strategy of the program and curriculum issues to ensure that students are learning state-of-the-art analytical techniques and applications. In addition, the Wood Center helps students in their internship and career searches.

"To stay on top of changes in the real estate industry, our curriculum is continuously changing. We focus on the practical by offering students increasing levels of real-world exposure to the real estate industry and its issues."
